The General Contends That the Islanders Are Right in Their De mand for Shorter Hours-His Reply to the Statements of Special Commissioner Porter's Secretary.

When asked what he thought of the labor situation in Havana as set forth in the orning despatches, General Garcia said: "The proposed general strike in Havana should not surprise the people of this Its coming was only a question of time. It demonstrates the quick perception of the Cubans. They know that in the United States eight hours constitute a day's work, and why not in Cuba? In my opinion, if the workingmen go out on strike today, as is said in the despatches from Havana, it will be an orderly strike, There will be no trouble unless the military authorities should attempt to force the men to return to work. It is not a question of wages for which the men con-tend, but for fewer hours of labor. I en-dorse their action, for they have justice on their side. Of course, a strike of all the on their side. Of course, a strike of all the the second. The scores; the workingmen in Havana will prove a serious matter, but I believe the employers, when they see their men are in carnest, will yield and grant the request for nest, will yield and grain the reducer too an eight-hour working day. "Lenord Darlyshire, Secretary to the Special Commission for the United States to Cuba and Porte Rico, in his interview in The Times this morning," said General Garcia, 'makee a serious mistake when he says I have speat the greater part of my life in the employ of the Spanish Govern-ment. I have never been in the employ of any government. I have been in Spain, also in France; in fact, have traveled in most of the European countries. My fam-ily was exiled from Cuba by the Spanish Government because of our well-known views on independence for the island. "I repeat what I said about the Marquis streguis, which has met with obje de Apstreguia, which has met with objec-tion from Mr. Durbyshire. It is true that Apetreguia was born in Cuba, but as he has Apetreguia was born in Cuba, but as he is in always been a Tory or Royalist he is in my opinion as much of a Spaniard as my opinion as much of a Spaniard as though he had been born in Spain. He has always fought against independence and has never had any sympathy for the revo-lutionists. Such a man is not qualified to express the sentiments of the Cubans who want and insist on independence.

"Secretary Parbyshire has failen into the same error as Special Commissioner Porter. Men like Apetzeguia do no rep-rement the great body of Cubana who have given their service and fo tunes for the cause of liberty, and it is not to be exthe dark days will now espouse independ once. I repeat that the Cobons want in-dependence, they want a government of their own, and that is what Congress said we should have. The annexation sentiat in Cuba comes a most entirely from the Spaniards. Furthermore, the newsthat reaches to the United States from Cuba is colored and doctored to influence the people of this country against our in-dependence. But I do not be eve our ene-mies will succeed in blinding the Adminintration. The Cubans are as anxiou. infration. The Cutams are as anxiou. On independence as were the fathers of this glorious. Republic who had to contend against despitable. Tories the same as we are now contending. When we obtain our independence these same Tories will be the ones to loudest prociaim their loyalty to the Republic."

LASHED AND PILLORIED.

Punishment Dealt Out to Offenders at Newcastle, Del.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 25.-Nine culprits, convicted of burglary and patty larceny, received stinging blows of the cato'-nine-tails in the jail yard at Newcastle Saturday, when Sheriff John E. Taylor carried out the order of the court of general sions. Among the culprits inshed, w several old offenders, although young years, and the "cat" purred so barshly o some of the bared backs that blood ficw freely. A cooling breeze was blowing fr to Lichman lover and in the chilly the men alternatively shivered and win while being punished.

The gates of the big stone enclose known as the fall yard were opened to public and fully 500 persons, curious witners the chastisement of their fello-men, flocked inside. Many women were the gathering and they had numerous ca cras. The women took positions on a paper near the jail kitchen where they w directly in front of the culprits as the l was being plied.

Blood trickled from the welts on his back when the whipping ended, and he was placed in the pillory for an hour. Joseph Dugan. Coyle's partner in crime pever winced under the blows of the biting "cat." and he also stood in the pillory fo an hour. Stephen Bostick, colored, petty larceny, received fifteen lashes, his back was streaked with dark red bi when Sheriff Taylor was through. Ed ward Winder, colored, for larceny, received ten lashes well inid on, and he squirme about the post as the thongs fell acros his back. William Banks, an aged colore man, received ten lashes; Harry Wilson en old offender, fifteen blows that mad-him cringe, because he stole a scraper James Wiley, ten lashes for petty theft and Willium Speller, fifteen whacks, deal vigorusly, under which the colored pris-oner stood bravely. The men lashed will serve various terms of imprisonment.

FORTIFYING NEW ENGLAND. Valuable Land Demanded for a Mas-sive Disappearing Battery. NEWPORT D I S- 25 The Street of Time of game—1 hour. NEWPORT D I S- 25 The Street of Game—1 hour.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 25.-The case of the United States against the Cottrell estate to condemn about thirty acres of land at Fox Point, Jamestown, will be heard in the United States court at Providence during the latter part of this month. The land will be used for a fortification in the form of a massive disappearing cur battery. As an instance of how well the Government has used others whose land was condemned at Jamestown for fortification purposes, may be cited the case of one land owner whose land and dwelling upon it cost him provided in an impartial manner. After whose land and dwelling upon it cost him something like $40,000, and the Government purchased it, after condemnation proceedings, for something like $110,000. This shows that the Government is paying a very good princ for the land it requires and must have for the defence of Narragansett Bay. The new two 12-inch breech-loading rifle batteries at the foot of Fort Dumplings is now completed in every respect, and is ready for use. The work there is said to be the best piece of fortification work on the New England coast.

Gentlemen, Greeting!

To you who have worn Hess Shoes we simply want to say that our autumn models are ready. Unnecessary to say more to those who have worn these shoes, as they appreciate the superiority of Hess Shoes as fully as we do ourselves.

To you whom the renown of Hess Shoes has failed to reach, we ask you to investigate the merits of our claims. Call and see a pair of Hess Shoes, ask your acquaintances about them, and if you're impressed, try a pair of our cheaper models and you will probably learn something about shoes that you'll be glad to know.

JEFFRIES BEGINS TRAINING.

At Asbury Park Preparing for His Fight With Sharkey.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Sept. 25 .- Champion Pugilist James J. Jeffries is in training here for his fight with "Tom" Sharkey, that is to occur the latter part of next month. Jeffries with "Billy" Brady, his manager; "Billy" Delaney, his trainer; his brother "Jack," and Harry Ware, the English bantam, arrived yesterday at the Brady cottage at Locharbor and at once began putting things in shape. Jeffries said he was glad to return to the quarters and get to work again. The old handball court used by the champion for his Fitzsimmons fight was not destroyed and was used for a short time. "Tommy" Ryan, who did much work in putting Jef-Ryan, who did much work in putting set first in fine trim for his last fight, will fries in fine trim for his last fight, will fries in fine trim for his last fight, will which has been effected by the Roberts method. It is probably the most sensational one, and therefore attracts the most sensational one, and therefore attracts the most attention. We do not anticipate that our method will prove a positive cure for all kinds and forms of insanity. In fact, the two weeks he will be in trim for another treatment in its present signer of development will probably cure only about 40 method in the had been captured by the Callaba slave traders as a boy, had been enlisted in the Khediv-lal army, had gone with the contingent sent to help the French arms in Mexico, and now wears on his breast, in addition to his numerous other decorations, the Mexican medal and a gold medal given by the Emperor of the French "for valor." two weeks he will be in trim for another battle. His flesh is hard and he is anxious battle. His flesh is hard and he is anxious to get on the gloves and settle down to active work. The champion will do much road work and bag punching, but will confine himself for the present to regular routine work until "Tommy" Ryan arrives.

Crowds gathered about the training quarters today greeting the return of the champion and wishing him success in his coming fight with Sharkey. There arrived several English fighters who will also train at the quarters. The cottage adjoined several English lighters who will also train at the quarters. The cottinge adjoining that of Brady's has been rented and there the Englishmen will put up. They will in the course of Jeffries' training assist him in going a few rounds with the gloves daily. Jeffries says he will win.

A DUEL WITH LASSOS.

Mexican and an American Fought It Out to the Death.

(From the Scattle Post-Intelligencer.) "Between a Mexican and an American, yes. It happened about twenty years ago, and it was about as exciting a piece of work as I ever saw, I was foreman at that time for the Seven Up (7 U. P.) horse ranch, in for the Seven Up (7 U. P.) horse ranca, to Wyoming, and we were on our way from Sydney, Neb., with a band of mares that had been shipped from Missouri to Sydney, Neb. We had to drive the animals overland to the home ranch.

"Well, I picked out an outfit of men."

Ment, I picked out and around Sydney, seven Americans and three around Sydney, seven Americans and three Mexicans—a tough lot. We started out, and when we got to the Big Cheyenne River, the programme for speeches, and word has when we got to the Big Cheyenne River, south of the Black Hills, we stopped to let the horses rest for a few days. There was one Mexican, Pedro Gonzalez, about the most ill-natured and most quarrelsome man I ever saw. He fell out with an American be the stage of th ever saw. He fell out with an American by the name of 'Dick' McAll, an all-around bad man. I knew 'Dick' by reputation, and he had a bad record.

"Well, one day at dinner time 'Dick' made some remarks about roping a 'greas-er' down into Texas and hauling him across the prairie until he was worn out-man must have been asleep or dead, for you must have been asleep or dead, for you man must have been asleep or dead, for you must have been asleep or dead, for you could not rope a live man and do that. 'Dick' jumped to his feet and pulled his gun, and Pedro did the same. I rushed between them and ordered them to put up their guns. The Mexican's black eyes shone like a rattlesnake's when about to strike, but he put the gun back in his belt, and 'Dick' did the same.
"I knew there would be trouble, and how to avoid it was a question not easily solved. I ordered the horse wrang'er to fetch up the saddle horses, for I intended how to avoid it was a question not easily solved. I ordered the horse wrang er to fetch up the saddle horses, for I intended to move on that afternoon. The Mext-an spoke to 'Dick' and they walked off to one side and talked in a low tone for a few minutes. When the horse came up I noticed both men saddled up their best horses. They both unwound their lasso topes and stretched them out side by side. Dick's' rope was about forty-five feet long and Pedro's about sixty feet. Pedro drew his knife from his belt and cut his rope the exact length of 'Dick's.' Then they coiled up their ropes carefully and each man led his horse in opposite directions until they were about a hundred yards apart. Then they mounted like a flash and rode toward each other. I stood holding my horse by the bridle and watched every move. I will never forget the look of hate and murder on the Mexican's face. His lips were apart, showing his face. His lips were apart, showing his white teeth, and awicked smile seeme! to play about his mouth. 'Dick's' jaws were set tight, and a look of mingled fear were set tight, and a look of mingled fear and rage combined on his savage face.

"They rode slowly toward each other for about fifty yards, watching each other fike a couple of caged panthers. Then they made a dash and both ropes rhot out like a streak of lightning. Both men dodged and escaped. In an instant they had gathered up their ropes, and began to circle around and around. I could hear the swish of their ropes as they swung them around their heads, each man trying to get some advantage. They charged back and forth and finally both threw their ropes again. It was a close call for 'Dick,' for the Mexican got his rope over 'Dick's' head, but 'Dick' threw it off before he could pull up the slack. In an instant Pedro had gathered up his rope and threw it again and the slack. In an instant Petro had gata-ered up his rope and threw it again and caught 'Dick' around the head and one arm. He drove his spurs into his horse and started across the prairie, but like a flash 'Dick's' hand went to his pistol, and before the Mexican could pull him from his horse 'Dick' sent a bullet through his head and the Mexican fell to the ground dead.

"But 'Dick' was jerked from his hors with terrible force, for the Mexican had made the end of his rope fast to the saddle horn. The Mexican's horse ran a short dis-

Curious Superstitions of the Native of the Dark Continent-They Frequently Ask Their White Officers to Break Spells When They Believe They Have Been Bewitched

(From the Cornhill Magazine.) We were a curious polyglot community; the superior officers British, the inferior of many races. Tail, soldierlike Kurds, their wild natures tempered by the habits of discipline and subordination; fair-haired Albanians, proud of the land of their birth and professing a certain skill in arms; de-scendants of the Mamelukes; burly Turks; subtle, town-bred Egyptians, as well as their heavier Fellaheen brethren; black Soudanese, who had risen from the ranks; Circasians; and admixtures of most o these races. The men were either Fella-heen or black Soudanese, who many of them had been formerly Dervish Riflemen, and had fought against us time and again, had seen the fall of Khartoum, the de-struction of Hicks' ill-fated army, the debacle at Baker's Teb, and many other

The Fellaheen, patient, enduring, oxlike en, do not call for much comment; sough capable of being worked up to a high state of efficiency and discipline, and though second to none as workers, they are not by nature soldiers. Their hearts are in their native villages on the banks of the Nile; they look forward longingly to the day of their release from military service, when they may return to their til-lage, tend their cattle and their date trees, look to their waterwheels, and slum-ber through the heat of the day in some hady corner.

With the black it is far different. He is by nature a fighting man and a soldier and loves fighting for fighting's sake. We had representatives of many tribes in our ranks, all with their tribal characteristics Trusty Shillooks, long, lithe Dinkas, rug-ged Nubas, Furs, of whom it is said that every man is a thief (no pun is intended where the cure of Irvin Fuller Bush, who effected, leaves for New York this week to on the Latin equivalent) and every woman no better than she need be. Then there were members of the cannibal tribes. Ny-um-nyum and Fertite, and men from far preside at a convention of physicians fa-Bagirma and from the headwaters of the Congo. Some of these men had been in the old Khedivial army, and had even fought against us in the ranks of Arabi's army at Tel-el-Kebir and had helped to work the guns at Alexandria, and they had work the guns at Alexandria, and they had almost to a man led lives teeming with adventure and of the deepest interest. There was one old black officer in a regiment with which I served, by name Ali Gifoon, of the Shillook tribe. He had day, "it is by no means the most wonderful which has been effected by the Roberts the Emperor of the French "for valor.

Another officer in the same battalion, named Omar, had accompanied Stanley brough darkest Africa, and for his services treating the diseases peculiar to old age. There are about ninety-five institutions in he was promoted from the ranks. Poo Omar! He was an untamable savage, with a hopeless liking for strong liquors, and I am afraid he was of little use as an officer, among his belonging were two pygmica. With reference to these pygmics I rememtreatment according to the Roberts method. habitants of the Central African forests. Our blacks were full of curious supersti-tions, with, strange to say, an implicit be-lief in their white officers' powers as averters of the evil effects of magic. Often hav I known a stalwart nafar (private) come before his commanding officer in the orderly room with the complaint that he had been bewitched, and go away quite happy with a letter to the Hakeem to give him some med-icine to break the charm. Often was one told on the rifle range by a man that his rifle was bewitched, and one broke the supposed spell by loading it for him, or by firing a round or two.

I was always curious to find out exactly how the inhabitants of the Soudan regarded the Mahdi, whether he was looked on as an impostor or as a prophet who had had TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 25.—A stormy time is predicted at the reunion of the old soldiers of the civil war which begins here tomorrow and continues a week. Jerry Simpson and other prominent men are on the programme for speeches, and word has been sent out by the friends of the Administration to all parts of the State urging rain. If he had lived, things would not have them to attend. The resolutions also ask President McKinley to attend.
Several days ago Jerry Simpson was hissed down and forced to leave a Grand Army reunion at which he opposed the retention of the Philippines. Republican tention of the Philippines. Republican Digna. "Ottman Digna?" he said. "Ottman Digna." tention of the Philippines. Republican Digna. "Ottman Digna?" he said. "Ottman Digna?" he said.

The black is an extremely uxorious man, and in the Egyptian army they were all allowed to marry, and a certain per-centage were placed on the married strength and received an allowance for the maintenance of their wives and fami-lies. With his wife and family near him, the black is absolutely happy. The wo-man waits upon him, cooks for him the savory messes his soul loveth, and min-isters generally to his comfort; the children are his heart's delight, and he never seems so happy as when he is playing with them. The surest way to a black man's heart is through his family, and, with judicious allowance for his feelings in this direction, he is the eastiest crea-ture in the world to manage and control. It is to be hoped that in the "Black Empire" of the future no man will think pire" of the future no man will think himself strong enough to arbitrarily sever the black troops from their families. At Wadi Halfa, Assouan and Suakin the black regiments had their married lines outside their cantonments, and as soon as parade was over they were to be seen hur-rying off to them. A certain number in rying off to them. A certain number in each company were allowed to sleep there every night, and on Fridays, the Mussul-man's Sunday, the "Haremat Lines" held high carnival. The tomtoms banged unceasingly; the men sat on the shady sides of the houses, clad in snowy shirt and drawers, with their families round them. and in the evening there was nearly held a "Dileuka" or dance, the members of each tribe joining together and performing their tribal dance—as a rule, a curious, posturing shuffle, descriptive of the various incidents of love and war. As the various incidents of love and war. As the evening wore on the fun grew fast and furious, the torches flared, the drums banged, the dancers shouted their warcries, until at last the bugies sounded "lights out," the reveiry died away, and these happy savages went off to bed like tired children, to wake on the next day reads for the military routing of a nex in the best quality of silk damask; the backs are tufted and the carving on the frames is most handsome; $75 would not be at all an unreasonable price for it; but our price $47.85 ready for the military routine of a new week.

When the forward movement commenced in the beginning of 1855, of course the wives and families had to be left behind. But as we advanced into the Dervish country their black sisters flocked from slavery to join the troops, and as the Dervishes retreated or were defeated they left numbers of women and children be-hind them, among whom our troops dis-covered many sisters, mothers, and even former wives. The woman question soon became a serious one. The Mahometan law allows a man a plurality of wives; our men had not seen their families for WALL PAPER.

lady was elected Sheikhs, and with the as-sistance of the oldest non-commissioned officer and some black commissioned officer settled all disputes; and never were there settled all disputes; and never were there more orderly, law-ablding communities. When the troops left the Dongola Province for further operations south, the grass widows were sent down to Wadi Halfa to join the other families, and it is to be hoped that by now all have been happily reunited at Fashoda, Khartoum, or wherever the breadwinner may happen to be stationed.

I mention all this because one's thoughts cannot help turning to Uganda and to poor Thurston, whom we all knew and liked so much; and with the opening up of a vast Black Empire and the employment of numbers of black troops, I think that a word in season is not amiss, and that a useful moral may be deduced as to the great secret of dealing with black troops. great secret of dealing with black troops.

Respect his one great weakness—give him a wife and family and home life, and he is the most genial, contented, eastly managed being in the world; deny him this, and he rapidly becomes restless and discontented, spends his leisure in wandering about in search of adventures, brawls and loots in the villages, and gives endless trouble.

Some of our blacks were very good shots, but the majority were below the average of English soldiers, and the Egyptians were not such good shots as the blacks.

At the battle of Firket a company of Camel Corps was lining a ride of rocks, with a corresponding ridge held by the Dervishes some three or four hundred yards to their front; a black sergeant named Capsoon had found a sort of natu-ral embrasure in these rocks, and, calling an Euglish officer's attention to his prow ess, he shot down Dervish after Dervish as he showed himself. The company then charged the Dervish position and cleared them out, and the fruit of Capsoon's skill at arms stood revealed; his bag was nearly a dozen killed. This almost equals what one has heard of Boer marksmanship.
